

Copyright and Privacy Statements

Copyright and Disclaimer

Copyright and Permission to Reproduce

The information on this site is produced and/or compiled by the Environmental Appeals Board (EAB) for the purpose of providing direct access to information about its services.

Terms of Use

Information: Brochures, Documents & Publications, Text on web pages

All information on this site has been posted to provide Albertans with direct access to information about the services offered by the Environmental Appeals Board.

The information has been posted with the intent that it be readily available for personal and public non-commercial (educational) use and except where otherwise prohibited, may be reproduced, in part or in whole or in part and by any means, without charge or further permission from the Environmental Appeals Board.

We only ask that:

- The materials are not be modified.
- Users exercise due diligence in ensuring the accuracy of the materials.
- The Environmental Appeals Board be identified as the source of the materials.
- The reproduction is not represented as an official version of the materials reproduced, nor as having been made in affiliation with or with the endorsement of the Environmental Appeals Board.

Photos, Maps, Digital Data, Illustrations, Audio and Video files

These materials are protected by the Copyright Act. Photos, maps, digital data, illustrations, and audio and video files posted on eab.gov.ab.ca may not be copied, reproduced, distributed, republished, downloaded, displayed, posted or transmitted in any form or by any means. Should you wish to reference these materials, you may link to these resources on our website.

Third-party Materials

Some of the material found on this site may be subject to copyrights held by persons or organizations other than the Environmental Appeals Board. In such cases, some restrictions on the reproduction of material may apply and it may be necessary to seek permission from the rights holder prior to reproducing the material.

Disclaimer and Limitation of Liability

The Environmental Appeals Board maintains this website to enhance public access to information about its legislation, policies, procedures, appeals, hearings, decisions and related information. Our goal is to keep the information on this website timely and accurate. However, EAB does not warrant or represent that the information on this site is up-to-date or otherwise entirely accurate. Any user intending to rely upon information obtained from this website is advised to contact the Environmental Appeal Board to confirm the accuracy and currency of the information.

Unless otherwise indicated, the information is general in nature only and is not intended to address the specific circumstances of any individual. In particular, the information on this website is not professional or legal advice and should not be taken as a substitute for such advice. Individuals in need of specific legal or professional advice should consult a qualified professional.

This website contains links to other internet sites. The Environmental Appeals Board is not responsible for the content of the material on external sites, nor is it liable to the user for any consequences resulting from the user linking or attempting to link to external sites.

Privacy Statement

The EAB is committed to providing our visitors with a web site that respects their privacy. We do not automatically gather any personal information from you, such as your name, phone number or address. This information is only obtained if you supply it knowingly and voluntarily, usually by completing a Notice of Appeal or by contacting us via phone or email. However, any correspondence or emails provided to the Board will be considered a public record. Should you have any questions concerning the Board's policy, please contact the us at 780-427-6207.

Any information requested with respect to an appeal is necessary to allow the Environmental Appeals Board to perform its function. The information is collected under the authority of the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act, section 33(c). Section 33(c) provides that personal information may only be collected if that information relates directly to and is necessary for the processing of the appeal. The information you provide will be considered a public record.